My journey exploring Ningde (寧德) and Xiamen (廈門) began a day early in the Changle (長樂) area of Fuzhou (福州). Caught off guard by a sudden cold snap, I had to grab warmer clothes locally and thankfully, our diverse group of 30 from across Asia had great luck with flights, and our tour officially began.

Our first stop was Amperex Technology Limited (ATL), also known as 新能源科技有限公司, in Ningde (寧德). Founded by Robin Zeng, ATL is a world leader in consumer electronics batteries. The factory has around 23,000 workers and roughly 1.2million sqm. We enjoyed a wonderfully prepared VIP lunch on site before touring the exhibition hall and donning full protective gear to witness the highly automated battery assembly process. There were 3 parts to the manufacturing process, first electrode manufacturing; second cell assembly and third cell activation and testing, late stage of part two is where we visited. We witnessed the tab welding, stacking, rolling and packaging of the cells. The whole process was highly automated with very few workers involved. We left with a beautiful “Intangible Cultural Heritage Paper-cut Art” souvenir.

Day two brought us to CATL, ATL’s EV battery spin-off and the global market leader. We explored their impressive exhibition hall, learning about innovations like the Qilin and Shenxing supercharging batteries, and observed the cell fabrication process where large films are rolled into cylinders. After a rushed lunch (we only had 30 mins at the impressive staff canteen) of white congee (it was all I could manage as I ran off to the souvenir shop to get some Ningde teddy bears), we were thrilled to receive limited-edition CATL 5000mAh power banks!

We then took a three-hour bus ride to Quanzhou (泉州) to visit the Anta (安踏) factory and museum, founded in the shoe capital of Jinjiang (晉江). Living up to its name meaning “steady steps, peaceful entrepreneurship” (安心创业、踏实做人), Anta operates an incredibly automated assembly line with robotic transport machines darting around. After touring the luxurious museum—highlighting their acquisitions like Fila and Arc’teryx—we braved six lanes of traffic to hit the factory outlet. Traveling alone, I teamed up with tour mates to score half-price deals.

For the remainder of the trip, we transitioned to serious relaxing in Xiamen, checked into Millennium Harbourview Hotel which is conveniently located at the heart of the city, where it is next to a shopping mall, ChungHua City (中華城), and also Zhongshang street (中山街). We enjoyed the Pearl Tower, a hike, and a night tour of Gulangyu island. The most exciting part was a sailboat ride at Wuyuan Bay (五缘湾). The weather was perfect, but the serenity was abruptly interrupted when another MAYCHAM delegate, the photographer from another boat, accidentally dropped his iPhone 16 Pro Max into the sea—a tragic split-second moment we could only offer quiet sympathy for!

Overall, the trip was impeccably organised by MAYCHAM. With comfortable buses, excellent hotels, and endless meals featuring lobsters and lobster dumplings, I am incredibly thankful for this joyful experience and look forward to future trips!

Nasi Lemak Talk Series – An Inspiring Evening with Datuk Captain Izham Ismail on His Journey with Malaysia Airlines By Veronica Tan Xiang Yu

Ask any Malaysian, and most would agree that the essence of a truly authentic Nasi Lemak lies in the richness of its sambal. While the culinary team delivered food that brought its own fiery flavours, Datuk Captain Izham Ismail shared stories that were much spicier than the sambal on our plates.

What started as an aviation career became an almost five-decade long commitment of his life. From being a pilot to taking over the helm of the company at its most turbulent period, Captain Izham showed extraordinary perseverance and resilience in leading Malaysia Airlines' reformation back in 2017.

His goal was clear from the start: to rebuild Malaysia Airlines into a premium carrier that could represent Malaysia. But to fundamentally change a company culture that has been deeply entrenched within the organisation was no easy task. Financial and operational conditions were at their worst, debts were high, employees' morale was low, and the company was on the verge of bankruptcy, he recalled.

However, Captain remained resolute and steered the company through rain and storm over his years at the helm. The leadership that he demonstrated left everyone in the room moved. Looking back, Captain was calm and reflective. He said: "Leadership is a series of events. If the boat sails seamlessly across the water, nothing will change."

In a room where business leaders and future ones gathered, Captain emphasised three important pillars to take home. First, to practise integrity with intent. No matter where we go, integrity should always be an active choice made with purpose. Second, courage. To have the courage to fail, rise up, and run faster. Third, uphold values. The values we hold are our compass in life and the anchor of every decision we make along the way.

The journey of Datuk Captain Izham Ismail is truly inspiring. His years with Malaysia Airlines stand as a powerful reminder that we are all capable of breaking through adversity and that choosing the right path, even when it is the harder one, is always worth it. To have spent an evening in his company alongside fellow MAYCHAM members, hearing his stories in his own words, was nothing short of a privilege.

The second MAYCHAM Penang trip, and this time the trip was again meticulously organised by our Deputy Chairman, Head of Events & Activities Subcommittee Ms Ng Cheng Cheng and team, together with the amazing support from GM Ms Fenn Ho, and Executive Officer Ms Iris Cheung. From June 18 to June 21, participants experienced an unforgettable, perfect blend of high-level business networking and vibrant cultural immersion in Malaysia's stunning UNESCO World Heritage City. Here is a look back at some of the standout moments from the delegation's journey:

Strategic Business Insights

The itinerary provided attendees with unparalleled access to Penang's rapidly evolving economic and industrial landscape.

- Future Developments: Walking through the landmark Silicon Island Project gave participants a firsthand look at the ambitious infrastructure shaping the region's future. This vision was further enriched by a strategic visit to the Penang Development Corporation (PDC), allowing delegates to grasp the broader economic master plan driving the state's impressive growth.
- Industry & Policy: The group was treated to an institutional tour of Pacific West Foods, which provided great operational insights. A major highlight for the delegation was the exclusive dialogue with the Chief Minister of Penang State Government, YAB Mr. Chow Kon Yeow—a truly unique opportunity to understand local policies and discuss cross-border economic synergies.

- Operational Excellence: Expanding on the region's infrastructure and industrial future, delegates were treated to an immersive afternoon site visit at Inari Amertron Sdn Bhd's Plant 34 within the Batu Kawan Industrial Park, gaining firsthand insight into cutting-edge technology operations.

Civic Engagement & Heritage

Bridging the gap between business and the city's administrative heart, delegates were honored with a close interaction with The Honourable Dato' Ir Rajendran P. Anthony, Mayor of the City Council. This engaging meeting was perfectly paired with an exclusive, special tour of the historic Penang Town Hall, seamlessly connecting the city's forward-looking governance with its rich colonial heritage.

Cultural and Culinary Immersions

Beyond the business engagements, Penang's rich heritage and natural beauty captivated the attendees.

- Eco-Tourism: Guided morning excursions up Penang Hill and through the lush canopies of The Habitat offered a refreshing dive into the island's celebrated biodiversity.
- Local Flavors: The curated culinary experiences were phenomenal, particularly the authentic, premium tasting at Eagle Hill Durian Farm that the group enjoyed on the third day.
- Historic Elegance: The trip culminated in a spectacular private dinner at the iconic Blue Mansion (Cheong Fatt Tze), where the architecture and atmosphere perfectly encapsulated Penang's storied past.

Exceptional Hospitality

Throughout the trip, delegates stayed at The Millen Penang, Autograph Collection. The luxury accommodation provided a comfortable, refined home base that allowed participants to recharge effortlessly between their packed daily schedules. This second MAYCHAM Penang trip was an exceptional balance of strategic engagement and local discovery. The delegates gained valuable new connections, lasting insights, and a deeper appreciation for the unique charm of Penang.
